Temple School Report

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

To the School Board, Temple, N. H.:

I hereby submit my second annual report as Superintendent of your schools.

I am pleased to report that the past year has been on the whole one of improvement. The lower grades are backward in all of the schools, a condition due to several things. Among these are the limited time of the teachers in a school where all of the different grades are taught, the lack of a sufficient number of books to do the work as outlined in the State Elementary Program of Studies, and the entrance of the pupils to the schools at too early an age. The first of these undesirable conditions might be remedied, if the District should see fit to build a two room building in the village. The second is gradually being corrected by means of the somewhat larger allowance made last year for books and supplies. The third matter is within the jurisdiction of the School Board but an increase in the age limit would be highly inadvisable until the citizens understand that entering school too young means that the pupil is unable to grasp much of the work and thus is not able to get the foundation for good work in later years. Any attempt to correct this evil by non-promotion never wholly succeeds as the interest of the pupil is lessened by such treatment. Where the practice is common it is bound to contribute to poor scholarship, as stated above.

In the upper grades the pupils seem to be about the average in intelligence. However, they are lacking in some of the branches such as Music, Drawing, Reading, and Civil Government. Their instruction has been such that the recent graduates have been able to make good records in the secondary schools which they attended.

The poor attendance record spoken of last year still continues. It seems unfortunate that this should be so, in view of the fact that this state of affairs is due to repeated offences of a few individuals.

The District has been particularly fortunate in retaining the services of teachers for their second and third year. This has enabled the work to go on without a break and without the friction so common where people are unacquainted with one another and therefore inclined to question either judgment or ability on one hand, and sincerity on the other.

The school in Number 5 District suffered the greatest possible calamity through the death of its able teacher, Miss May Barry, early in the present winter. Her professional ability may be judged by the fact that her school was the best of any of the fifteen rural schools under my supervision. Her personal qualities were such that all who knew her held her in the highest esteem. Our sorrow at her departure is tempered by the thought that her work will make better men and women of her pupils and that she has accomplished more than most of us are able to do even if granted longer terms of service.

This sad happening has made it advisable to close Number 5 school during the winter term. It would ill behoove me to say what course should be pursued in regard to keeping this school closed. However, it has seemed to me that transportation of pupils, unless it is done upon a large scale, is generally unsatisfactory. In other words the compensation must needs be sufficient to ensure proper conveyance and proper care of the children without laying an undue burden upon those engaged to transport them.

In text books and equipment we are gaining and if the present allowance is continued, two years at the most should see adequate equipment in all our schools.

All of the school buildings need considerable done in repair work. This has been so, because the District has looked forward to a new consolidated school. Now the time seems to be at hand either to spend several hundred dollars for repairs or construct a new building. Among these repairs are new doors, sills and book closet at Number 1; paint, a new floor, a wood shed and a new stove at Number 4.

With experienced teachers in our schools the most pressing need seems to be for a detailed outline of the work. This will be prepared in the near future as my time will permit.

I wish to thank the School Board for the hearty co-operation and through the Board to express to the citizens of Temple my appreciation of their earnest support.

L. S. MORRISON,
Superintendent of Schools.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC

To Mr. Leonard S. Morrison, Supt. of Schools:—

As requested, I hereby submit a report of the work in music in the Temple schools.

It is an attested fact among educators that the study of music in the public schools does for a child what no other line of study can do, and is therefore invaluable. The percentage of children, who cannot be taught to sing because of defective vocal organs, is very small, and this fact gives us the incentive to place before each scholar the opportunity to learn to sing. In case of physical difficulty the services of a physician should be employed. Usually a large proportion of the entering class are monotones, but by practice and perseverance, not only on the part of the supervisor, but of the grade teacher in her daily efforts, this can be largely overcome during the first year. No subject requires more conscientious drill than music.

When the musical course was first introduced in Temple, the greatest difficulty was the monotone singing among the older pupils, caused by previous lack of training through the grades. In a number of cases there has been marked improvement in the ability to sing the correct pitch. This is much more difficult to overcome—sometimes actually impossible—at this period than when entering school.

In district schools many grades in the same room necessitate the forming of two divisions. Rote songs, suggestive of the fancies and pastimes of little folks, are the main feature of lower grade work; also the teaching of staff elements, names of lines and spaces, first time principles, with practice in reading exercises. The upper grades use the First Reader, New Educational Music Course, and the technical work already covered consists in finding "do" from the key signature, naming keys, three "time motions," arithmetic of music, and one kind of time. Interval drill, written work and ear training are important and are given frequent practice. The condition, caused by lack of confidence, has been somewhat improved by personal attention and by the use of the Weaver Individual Sight Singing Slips, whereby each pupil is given one chance to sing his slip, and sits down at his first mistake, which is recorded as being one in time, pitch, or reading. At the close of the lesson, these are added and the teacher can then determine wherein lies the greatest difficulty. This kind of training makes the pupil independent, forces him to think quickly, to concentrate, and gives him self-control and habits of accuracy.

In order that the pupils may learn to love and appreciate good music, they are encouraged to sing with understanding and with good tone quality and production, correct breathing and clear enunciation. Teachers should be particular to have erect sitting and standing positions. Terms of tempo and expression are explained as they are met, and the children enjoy searching for anecdotes of famous composers, who have written some of the songs they sing.

We should aim to teach music rather than method, and adapt the teaching to the needs of the individual schools, so that the pupils may be better equipped for life both mentally and socially.

Respectfully submitted,
MILDRED ELIZABETH HOLTHAM,
Supervisor of Music.
